II Humanistic Management Workshop

IECO – RCC at Harvard

Purpose

We conceive this event as the seed for a future IHMA Learning Lab (LELA). This would be the first step for establishing a community of learning, based on humanistic management principles that will contribute to the co-creation and search for pragmatic solutions based on a Humanistic Management view.

Content

The II HM workshop will focus on the promotion of: (1) human dignity, (2) integral human flourishing and (3) a conception of human work in and around organizations that contributes to the common good.

It will include theoretical and practical sessions lead by Harvard Professors, IECO Members and Humanistic Management representatives. There will be also, Harvard Tours, MIT Lab Tour, Campus Experience and more.

Attendant's profile

The program is aimed at executives belonging to companies from all over the world, including different sectors and sizes, committed with the International Humanistic Management Association project. Participants must be willing to learn from each other, and to become potential partners of the HM Learning Lab (LELA).

[PLEASE NOTE]: Space is limited. Full payment is required in order to make a reservation in the II HM Workshop.
